The eighth annual Saint Barth Gourmet Festival will return next month, as 11 internationally-renowned chefs will descend upon the Caribbean isle to showcase the best of French gastronomy.

The epicurean tradition, which was canceled last year due to the coronavirus, will take place from November 10 through November 14. During the gourmet event, invited chefs work with local culinary teams at several of the island's upscale hotels and restaurants, to create unique, multi-course tasting menus that give guests a glimpse of the visiting gourmands' best takes on French cuisine and dishes.

This year, the chefs have partnered with luxe spots including Hotel Barrière Le Carl Gustaf, La Petite Plage, Hotel Rosewood Le Guanahani St. Barth, Hotel Christopher, Hotel Le Sereno, Hotel Manapany, Cheval Blanc St. Barth-Isle de France, Restaurant L'Esprit Saline, Nikki Beach St. Barth and Zion St. Barth.

You don't have to be a foodie to appreciate the cuisine and scenery of the picturesque Caribbean island, of course, and November happens to be one of the loveliest times to travel to Saint Barthélemy, since it's just before the hectic tourist season. If you're considering a trip to the dreamy destination this year (even if it's not for the Gourmet Festival), you'll want to book a stay at one of the island's most unique and luxurious hotels. While there's no shortage of glamorous accommodations in St. Barth, certain spots always manage to stand out. Below, see seven of the best hotels to book for your next trip to the French island.

Hotel Christopher

Hotel Christopher is situated right on the water above Pointe Milou, and while it doesn't have an actual beach, it does offer picturesque sea views and a very Instagrammable infinity pool. The chic hotel, which reopens for the season on October 15, is composed of 29 rooms and 19 suites, as well as three new four-bedroom villas. The Creole-inspired interiors feature lots of stone, wood, resin and grey marble, and most of the accommodations have private terraces. There's also a Sisley Spa with five treatment rooms. Hotel Christopher is one of the hotels that partnered with a visiting chef for the festival; Chef Sébastien Vauxion is working with the hotel's chef Arnaud Faye at the newly opened Rivyera restaurant for the gourmet extravaganza. From $579 a night, Hotel Christopher.
